

Don C. Limbaugh

My business is helping people.

Although born in Lock Haven, Pa., I grew up in Milton, Pa. where my family had a bakery business. After graduating from Penn State University, with a degree in psychology, I began a social work career in Lewisburg, Union County, Pa. In 1979, I obtained a real estate sales license and worked in the real estate profession for six years, on a part-time basis, with the Fairman Agency in Watsonstown, Pa. We worked with residential, land, commercial, and farm listings and sales. A promotional opportunity, in my social work career, led me back to Lock Haven, Clinton County, Pa. and I placed my real estate license into escrow for five years. Additional promotional opportunities, led me to several assignments in Harrisburg, Pa. Desiring to eventually get back into the real estate profession, I reactivated my real estate license and became a referral agent for the Associated Client Referral Agency in Camp Hill, Pa. My final social work position was Director of the Centre County Assistance Office, in State College, Pa., and my family and I selected Huntingdon County as our home. We love the people, mountains, forests, Raystown Lake, and other recreational areas of Huntingdon County. In 2007 I retired from my social work career, and can now dedicate my full time to the real estate profession.

I am proud to be part of the dedicated team of full-time real estate professionals at Raystown Realty. My people business now involves helping people find the right home, or business location, and bringing buyers and sellers together in win-win solutions for both parties. I am enjoying working with all the real estate professionals in the area, through both our Huntingdon County Multi-list Service, and the Centre County Multi-list Service. Whatever your real estate needs, please contact me and let me be of service to you.
